Selvedge

Selvedge, the new textiles and art magazine launched last year is as beautifully presented as the articles it features, with a treasure trove of textiles in fine art, fashion, interiors, travel and shopping across its pages. Each edition is inspirational and at the forefront of contemporary work, whilst acknowledging all the traditions on which our rich textile history is built.

Spring sees the launch of fantastic new fabrics in the Rowan Fabric Collection.

New designers include Martha Negley, an American designer whose Vegetable and Fruits and Florals Collections were inspired by visits to local markets, and promise a feast of colour, and Carla Miller, whose passion for design has led to her working in such diverse areas as wallpaper and giftwrap, and who has created the wonderful Geographica Collection. Taking its inspiration from dynamic natural forces, rippling water and bubbling lava, this collection features rich colours and bold textures.

Kaffe Fassett excels with his new designs Beach Balls, Spools, and Fan Flower. The Lille Collection will also have you reaching for your sewing machine – this is a collection of designs from the 19th century Lille archive which have been re-coloured by Kaffe to produce an astonishing range of traditional yet modern designs.

All collections are available through Rowan fabric stockists worldwide.

PROJECT IDEA

Finishing Touches

As highlighted in Rowan Magazine 37 (page 35), beautiful crocheted trims using buttons and beads make the perfect finishing touches, adding embellishment and a personal detail to just about any accessory or piece of clothing. We have taken just one of the ideas featured in Magazine 37 and shown how it can transform a simple scarf into something essentially beautiful.
